Recognition, Value, Expertise...

It is what certification is all about!

ABOUT CERTIFICATION

Certification is a process to validate, based upon predetermined standards, a professional's knowledge for safe and effective practice in a specialty or defined subspecialty. The National Certification Corporation™ (NCC) believes that what makes a credentialed health care provider different is the willingness of the individual to be accountable for their knowledge and to take the risk of undergoing a third-party review of their knowledge. Professionals, who hold an NCC specialty or subspecialty certification, make a difference in the lives of their patients. They are unique professionals who have made the commitment to lifelong learning, patient advocacy and professional practice.

Over 228,000 health care professionals have been certified in Neonatal, Antepartum, Obstetric, Gynecologic and Women's Health through the National Certification Corporation, demonstrating an ongoing commitment to practice. Core certifications for the registered nurse (RNC) validate to patients, families, peers, employers and the public, the RN's specialty knowledge of nursing care of the hospitalized patient. Core certification for the Advanced Practice Registered Nurse validates readiness to provide core knowledge-based care to critically ill neonates (NNP-BC®) or to women with needs in the Obstetric, Gynecologic and Primary Care areas (WHNP-BC®). Subspecialty certifications (C-EFM®, C-NPT®, C-NNIC, C-ONQS, C-OBE, C-RHI, and C-ELBW) validate the special knowledge and experience required in these focused areas of specialty practice.

Incomplete Application Processing

Incomplete applications are defined as:

- missing or incomplete information
- incorrect information
- lack of licensure with all required information, including expiration date
- inadequate fees (Returned Checks, Credit Card Declines or Credit Card Chargebacks)
- any reason resulting in an inability to determine candidate eligibility status

Incomplete applications will be returned with instructions on how to upload the missing information and provide the required non-refundable $30 reprocessing fee. Upon resubmission, applications that do not include this fee or do not adequately address the identified deficiencies will be declared ineligible. All filing deadlines will apply.

Retest Policy

Retest candidates must submit a new application, meet the then current eligibility criteria and pay all applicable fees. NCC does not limit the number of times a candidate can retake an NCC examination; however, the maximum number of times a candidate can take an NCC exam in any given calendar year is two. Retest candidates will be assigned a different form of the examination. All retest candidates must wait 45 days from the date they took their exam before they can submit a new application to retest.

- this date is provided in the candidate's results notification
- this 45-day wait period affects all modes of testing

Any loss of power or internet during an exam in which there was more than 15 minutes of testing with exposure to more than 10% of the exam requires a retest after 45 days. There is no need to complete a new application but you will need to notify NCC to move your eligibility window so it begins 45 days after the exam attempt. Please notify NCC immediately if this occurs so that a new window can be set.

If a retest application is submitted prior to the 45-day wait period, the application will be returned as ineligible. The applicant will be subject to the $50 non-refundable application fee.

GENERAL POLICIES

How Exams are Scored

NCC examinations are criterion referenced. This means the passing score is based on predetermined criteria. The passing score is established by the NCC Board of Directors.

NCC utilizes the item response theory of psychometrics for the analysis of its examinations. Item Response Theory (Rasch analysis) is the study of tests and item scores based on assumptions concerning the mathematical relationship between abilities and item responses. Each test item has a difficulty and ability level. The higher the difficulty of an item, the greater the ability score one achieves. Pass/fail is determined based on the number of questions answered correctly. As a question is answered correctly, the ability score is increased and it decreases when a question is answered incorrectly. The difficulty of the examination determines the actual number of questions that must be answered correctly in order to achieve the passing ability level.

Because more than one form of the examination is given, a process called equating is used. This procedure converts all results to a common scale. Someone who takes a slightly more difficult form of the examination will need to answer fewer questions correctly than someone who takes a slightly easier form of the examination.

Test result reports will identify pass/fail status and give feedback on the various content areas of the exam in the form of word descriptors: very weak, weak, average, strong, very strong. Pass/fail rates for previous NCC exams can be viewed on the NCC website, NCCwebsite.org.

Retention of Computer Answer Strings

Computer answer strings are kept for at least one year from the date of the examination.

Test Disclosure

NCC does not make test questions available for review. Because test questions may be used for more than one examination administration, distributing this information would compromise the security of the test questions and would increase the cost of certification if the questions had to be replaced each year.

GENERAL POLICIES

Maintaining Your Certification

The NCC Maintenance Program requires professionals to maintain their certification every three years. The purpose of the maintenance program is to insure that each certified individual maintains their specialty knowledge competencies over time through continuing education.

Those maintaining certification must earn continuing education in the specified specialty area. Each certified professional is required to complete a maintenance application and pay a maintenance fee in addition to documentation of the appropriate continuing education activities. Individuals who allow their certification to lapse can regain their status only through re-examination. If that occurs, the then current examination eligibility criteria will need to be met.

NCC randomly audits maintenance applications. If you are chosen for audit you will be required to upload an electronic CE certificate and a description of the CE earned. These records should be maintained during each maintenance cycle until your maintenance application has been approved.

Verification of Your Credential

A third party verification of the newly held certification must be processed by request through the NCC website. Click on Request a Verification on the home page.

A verification cannot be requested until official results with score report have been uploaded to your NCC account.

NCC cannot verify certification until after certification is achieved.

There is a $30 charge for each request. Verifications are sent instantaneously via email to the designated party. Verifications include original date of certification, maintenance due date, certification specialty and NCC President's signature and the NCC corporate seal. An email address is needed to use the process. NCC has listed on the website email addresses of the state boards of nursing who have provided them.

ABOUT NCC

The National Certification Corporation™ (NCC) is a not for profit organization that provides a national certification program for nurses, physicians, and other licensed health care professionals. Certification is awarded to nurses and advanced practice nurses in the antepartum, obstetric, gynecologic and neonatal specialties. Multidisciplinary subspecialty certifications are awarded for Electronic Fetal Monitoring, Neonatal Pediatric Transport, Obstetric and Neonatal Quality and Safety, Care of the Extremely Low Birth Weight Neonate, Neonatal Neuro-Intensive Care, Obstetric Emergencies, and Reproductive Health and Infertility.

Since its inception in 1975, NCC has awarded certifications to more than 228,000 licensed health care professionals.

NCC'S PHILOSOPHY OF CERTIFICATION

Certification is an evaluative process that provides health care professionals in women's health, obstetric, gynecologic, and neonatal specialties the opportunity to demonstrate publicly what they know and to be recognized for the knowledge they possess. As a voluntary process, the NCC certification and subspecialty examinations are designed to test for special knowledge.

The NCC credential carries no licensing authority. The ability to practice is regulated by the relevant state boards of licensure and while certification may be required in some states, NCC has no regulatory power to require states to recognize certification for this purpose. Practice and educational standards are reflected in the certification process but the responsibility for development of such standards rests with the professional specialty organizations and the education community.

NCC encourages individuals to seek out information about how certification relates to state licensure requirements, program accreditation of the educational institutions attended, the educational and practice standards of the relevant national specialty organizations and employment expectations in their community. Contact with state boards of licensure, universities and colleges, professional specialty organizations and individual employers for specific requirements is highly recommended.

NCCA & ABSNC Accreditation

NCC nurse and subspecialty certification programs are accredited by the National Commission for Certifying Agencies (NCCA).

NCC nurse practitioner certification programs are accredited by both the Accreditation Board for Specialty Nursing Certification (ABSNC) and the National Commission for Certifying Agencies (NCCA).
